CHINA GOES BACK TO ANTI-POREIGN CONSERVATISM.

England's Course Seems More Courageous, and It Is Thought There Is a Better Understanding Between Her, This Country, Germany, and Japan-The Partition of China May Bo Near at Hand-Abdul Hamid in a Tight Fix-He Sends to Emperer William for Advice-England Likely to Mollify France by Giving Her a Slice of Bahr el Ghazal.

Servical Cable Desputch to Tun Sun. ONDON, Oct. 8,-The Chinese situation has clarified somewhat during the week, but still from lucid. There is no longer any doubt that complete reaction to the extreme form of anti-foreign conservatism now domirates the Government at Pekin. There is an equally strong conviction in the British official mind that Bussian intrigues are responsible for the situation, in which case important dedesigns of the Czar's Government in Asia will seen be furtheoming.

The most encouraging feature is the vague less significant change in the attitude of Lord Salisbury. There has been within scarcely more than a week a decided accestion in vigor, not to say aggression, in the British policy with regard to the three foreign crises now pending, namely, in Crete, Fashoda In respect of the latter the change not so obvious, because in the great far Eastern game most of the moves are se-cret. But the three questions are more or less connected, as far as British policy is concerned. The outside observer may only get an impression that something has happened to strengthen the hands of Great Britain and enable her to pursue a courageous course without inviting defeat or threatening the peace of the world. The natural inference is that this something is a better understanding between Great Britain, Germany, the United States and Japan. There is no official news wherean to base this conjecture, but the impression is so strong that it is the basis of a considerable revival of public confidence in Lord Salisbury among his old supporters, who had been growing more and more discour-aged for many months past.

They now look for a strong British counter-move at Pokin to offset Russia's latest advantage, but it is difficult to see how it will be possible to effect a fresh coup d'état in that distracted country without producing anarchy, which would speedily compel the powers to take possession of the Flowery Kingdom and parcel it among themselves. English opinion favors this partition more strongly each day. The impression is now general that a division of China is inevitable. If so, then the sooner the better, according to the British point of

It is abundantly evident that Abdul Hamid is in an extremely tight place, almost the tightest, in fact, since the war between Turkey and Russia. Despatches, which, to escape the censor, were sent via Philippopolis, were received in London to-day. They say that the Sultan is much perturbed. The fact that four powers have actually held together to the length of sending him an ultimatum, despite all his efforts to sow discord, he regards as omicous as well as novel, and he has brooded over it and discussed it into the small hours of the mornings. Tewfik Pasha, the clever Foreign Minister who hustled through the treaty of peace with Greece, and most of the members of the Cabinet have advised Abdul Hamid to refuse to comply with the four powers' ultimatum, or at least to let the troops in Crete fight before being bundled out of the island, so that the world may see that the Ottoman spirit is not yet cowed. They base this advice mainly on the fact that Germany has kept outside this policy of threatening and upon the supposed impossibility of the four powers using their armed forces against the Sultan's army without the co-operation or consent of Emperor William at the moment when he will be enjoying Turkish hospitality.

The Sultan apparently shares this skepticism, although a minority of the Cabinet have warned him, to the length of endangering their positions and perhaps at the risk of their heads, that England is prepared to drive the Turkish troops out of Crete herself if the other powers draw back at the last moment. Sir N. R. O'Conor, the new British Ambassador, gave the Sultan practically the same warning at a private audience last evening.

A couple of hours later a long telegram was therefore, that the responsibility will rest with Emperor William as to a bloody or peaceful evacuation of Crete, and that for his own comfort's sake he will give the Sultan good

The Fashoda question is assuming exaggerated importance in consequence of the bul-lring tone adopted by those London newspapers that are ordinarily more or less inspired and, in larger measure, of the course followed by the French Covernment in allowing the Paris press to suppose that negotiaflors are proceeding us to Major Marchand's tight to be where he is. Frenchmen's feelings will be bad! shocked when they learn the truth, which ought to be some time next week. In distance quarters the rumor has been persistently current that Lord Salisbury has on greater courage than would be waved in insistence upon the evacuation of Pashoda, or rather the withdrawal of Major larchand, for it must be remembered that Frenchmen are not in possession of Fashoda at all. The cumor is to the effect that Lord Salisbury has demanded that the French Government recall its officers and men from the entire province of Bahr el Ghazal on the ground that it was once a province of the Egyptian Soudan and Egypt has never reneed its rights therein. Such a demand is but impatural, but that it should really be put orward at this juncture would look remarkably ke deliterate provocation on the part of the British trovernment. It may be said with con-Edence that Lord Salisbury will be content with Major Marchand's withdrawnl and that subsequent negotiations will be on the basis of give and take with the Egyptian possessions on the

The Bahr of Ghazal province has great natural carabilities and the cession of a big sites. of it to France would probably soothe French susceptibilities. An official annoucement that Major Marchand has been ordered to withdraw will almost certainly be made in less than a week, and the excuse will be that the French ernment has ascertained from Major Marchand that his occupation of Fashoda was not efve, owing to the failure of France to reach him with supplies and reinforcements.

NOTES OF LEGAL EVENTS.

The long vacation of the lawyers came to an end on Monday, and the courts began their work for the autumn. On Tuesday the Court of Appeals handed down forty-two decisions. Of these twenty-eight were affirmances, ten were reversals, two were modifications, and two were dismissals. On Wednesday the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court in this district, which hears appeals from the City Court of New York and inferior courts not of record, decided fifty-one cases, the list comprising twenty-seven affirmances, twenty reversals and four modifications. This tribunal low consists of Judges Bockman, Gildersleeve and Giegerich, Judge Beekman being the presiding Justice. The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for the Second Department convened on Monday with 138 new cases on the calendar. The Appellate Division for this department resumed the hearing of appeals on Tuesday afternoon. The out-or-town Judges who have been assisting the local udiciary at trial term during the week are Mr. Justice Laughlin of Buffalo in this borough and Mr. Justice Burr Mattice of Oneonta in Brooklyn.

The four nominations for Justice of the Supreme Court in the Brooklyn districts are all of a high character and insure the election of two apable Judges. The only one of the candidates who has had any judicial experience is Jesse Johnson, who was appointed to the bench by Gov. Black last year to fill the vacancy ocasioned by the death of Judge William J. Osborne. Judge Johnson was a prominent Republican member of the Constitutional Convention of 1804. Frederic A. Ward, his asso-ciate on the Republican judiciary ticket, has long been one of the most prominent and suc-cessful lawyers at the Kings county bar, and was formerly a partner of that brilliant advocate, the late Grenville T. Jenks, whose son, Almet F. Jenks, is now to run against Mr. Ward on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Ward, we believe, has never held any public office, his ambition having been purely professional. Mr. Jenks has been Assistant District Attorney of Kings county, Corporation Counsel of the city of Brooklyn Judge Advocate General of the State of New York, and is now again in reality the Corporation Counsel of Brooklyn, although officially known as an assistant to the Corporation Counsel of New York. District Attorney Marean, the other Democratic candidate for Supreme Court Justice in the Second Judicial district, is one of the best equity lawyers in this part of the State and a man of scholarly tastes and attainments. At one time early in his Brooklyp career he was an instructor in elocution at the Polytechnic Institute. Among the cases decided by the Court of Appeals on Tuesday was that of the People vs. Livingston Sickles, which involved the con-stitutionality of section 688 of the Penal Code, relating to the effect of a former conviction upon the punishment to be imposed in case of a conviction for a second offence. This section provides a severer penalty for a second offence than can be inflicted for a first offence of the same nature. The defendant was charged with the crime of robbery in the first degree as a second offence, and insisted upon his trial that any provision of statute which permitted proof that he had formerly been convicted of robbery in the first degree was unconstitutional because it was not the due process of law guaranteed by the Consti-The procedure, his counsel contended, deprived him of the presumption of innocence to which he was entitled, when being tried for the crime charged to have been most recently committed. The County Court of Kings county, where the case arose, and the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn upheld the validity of the enactment, and the Court of Appeals has now af-firmed the judgment. In England the law requires the principal charge to be tried by the jury in the first instance, and the prior conviction is not proved unless the jury find against the prisoner upon the accusation immediately under consideration. Such a provision might well be made by the Legislature of this State, as the proof of conviction of a prior offence must tend to prejudice the jury against the defendant when they are hearing the evidence in support of the second accusation.

The case of the Asbury Park sea lion has been decided by the appellate term of the Supreme Court in this city in favor of Mr. James A. Bradley, the well-known founder of the New Jersey village, who purchased the animal from a fisherman, who caught it in the Atlantic some seventy miles down the New Jersey coast. It was claimed by Mr. James R. Mullett, who alleged that he had captured sent from the palace to Berlin, wherein it is it near Santa Barbara, Cal., in the Pacific believed the Sultan asked Emperor William's Ocean, and had sent it to Glen Island in this advice, and promised to abide by it. It seems. State, whence it escaped and made its way southward to the point where it was taken by the person who sold it to Mr. Bradley. In a sult to recover damages for the conversion of the sea lion, the City Court of New York dismissed Mr. Mullett's complaint on the ground that when a wild erecture like this regains its liberty, the original captor loses the property which he had temporarily acquired in it. The plaintiff contended that this rule as to wild animals did not apply until the sea lion had reached its native or natural habitat, which would be the Pacific coast, as this particular variety of sea lion is not found on our seaboard; but the trial court and the appellate term, speaking through Presiding Justice Beekman, agree that the rule is not subject to any such restriction. Mr. Bradley, therefore, has maintained his title to the sea lion.

> In the case of the people against Wilmarth, the Court of Appeals has just affirmed a decision of the Appellate Division in the Albany department, which reversed a judgment of the County Court of Fulton county, convicting the defendant of forgery in the third degree. prisoner was charged with having aftered the city payroll of the city of Gloversville. One of the jurors who was allowed to sit in the case against the objection of the defendant after he had exhausted his peremptory challenges, admitted that he had formed an opinion in regard to the guilt or innocence of Mr. Wil-marth, which was quite fixed and decided and which it would require considerable evidence to remove, and added, "I don't think I would be a fair and unprejudiced man to try the case against Mr. Wilmarth, the way I feel now. It seems surprising that any court should deem one who had made this statement qualifled to not as a fair and impartial juror; and as Mr. Justice Herrick declared in the Appolate Division, "It is perfectly apparent that as to this juror at least the defendant had imposed upon him the burden of proving his innocence of the crime charged against him, instead of has ing the burden imposed upon the people of

> A curious attempt to turn a woodshed into a dwelling within the meaning of the Liquor Tax law was recently made in a case in Ul-ster county, which has just been decided b Judge Clearwater of the Supreme Court. In order to obtain the statutory consent to the issuance of a certificate, two-thirds of the owners of buildings occupied exclusively as dwellings, within 200 feet of the proposed sa loon, must sign. One of the signers was ". man of nomadic life," without family, wh moved into a building which had been used solely as a woodshed for twelve years and had no chinney and but one window. The cer-tificate was applied for on the day he moved in. The court refused to regard the struc-ture as a dwelling under the statute.

proving his guilt."

In the Third Judicial district of this Stars, which comprises the counties of columbia, Sultivan, Uster, Greene, Albany, Schonaric and Rensselser, a Justice of the Surreme Court is also to be chosen at the autocaching general election, to succeed A. T. Clearwater, who now holds the office by appointment from the Governor, having succeeded Justice Alton B. Parker of Kingston when he became Chief Judge of the Court of Apricals. The Berubblicans have nominated Mr. Justice Clearwater to be his own successor, while the Democratic have named the present Surrogate of Uster county, James A. Betts, whose term as Surrogate would expire heat year. The Third district was formerly Democratic, but has been Republican in the bast two Judiciary elections held there, and was not carried by Chief Judge Parker, though his majority in the State was so large last year.

TO DRILL LONG ISLAND POLICE.

Chief Devery Opens a School of Instruction in Jamaica Town Hall.

Chief Devery established yesterday a school of instruction for policemen in the old Town Hall of Jamaica, and put Capt. Anthony Allaire, the drillmaster of the Police Depart-ment, and Sergt, Smith of the Department of Instruction in charge.

The school is a result of a recent visit which the Chief made to Jamaica. He found that the Chief made to Jamaica. He found that many of the resident policemen had never heard of the book of rules and knew nothing of police drill. The courts have recently reinstated fifty or more of the auburban rolleemen who were refired when the Consolidation act went into effect, and he found that they needed a great deal of instruction. The first step will be to furnish the men with the books of rules and tactics, and the instructors will visit the school three times each week to hear lessons and drill the men.

Callaghan is Treasurer of the Belleville Building and Loan Association, and he rode to Newark yesterday with $2,700 in a worn and shabby old satchel His first call was at the Newark City National Bank, where he deposited the money. Then he had to go to the office of Lawyer M. T. Barrett on the next corner to consult him upon matters relating to corner to consult him upon matters relating to the association.

As he left the bank two young men eyed the satchel hungrily and then followed him down the street. They probably took him for a man who had been drawing money for the payroll of some big factory. He climbed the stairs and entered Barrett's office, closely followed by both of the men. A moment after he had carelessly put the satchel down on the floor of the outer office one of the men inquired for Mr. Barrett, and when told that he was out picked up the satchel and went downstairs, followed by his companion.

Mr Callaghan discovered his loss almost instantly and started in pursuit, but when the rideculous side of the episode occurred to him he began to laugh, and returned to the lawyer's office.

DISAPPOINTED MR. MORRISON. The Early Morning Activity in His House Was Misleading.

John Morrison, an employee of the elevated railroad, was a disappointed man yesterday. He lives at 521 East Fourteenth street and is expecting a son and heir. He engaged a young pecting a son and heir. He engaged a young woman named Mary Scheence to wait on his wife. He left home on Friday night and returned about 6 o'clock yesterday morning. He found the neighbors all astir and his rooms brilliantly lighted. He mounted the stairs four steps at a time. Then he found that the nurse had given birth to a female child. The woman was removed to Bollevue Hospital and Morrison is looking for another nurse.

said that she was tired of life and intended to commit suicide.

Mra. Van Hovenberg was found at Jacob Lichtenstein's house at (a) Wickliffe street and taken to Folice Headquarters by a policeman. She admitted that she piaced her daughter in the Clinton street house, and said that her motive was to get an opportunity for both of them to leave the city without being followed. The police think that the real reason was to invoke sympathy in the mind of Juson Van Hovenberg, her husband, who is, suing for divorce. It is said that Mrs. Van Hovenberg wrote a letter to her husband begging him to come to her in her affliction.

When the mother and daughter were permitted to go yesterday afternoon they proceeded to Lichtenstein's house. Policeman's Death Due to Rescue of Others. Policeman James Bulger, who was attached to the Morrisania police station and lived at 038 East 162d street, died at his home yesterday of consumption, resulting from a severe cold which he caught in rescuing two persons from drowning in the Harlem River three years ago. Bulger was on duty at Lincoln and years ago. Bulger was on duty at Lincoln and Third avenues on the night of Sept. 3, 1845, and heard erres for help coming from the river near the Third Avenue Bridge. He discovered an overturned rowboat with a man and a woman clinging to it. Bulger merged into the water and brought them ashore, one at a time. He became ill shortly afterward, but was able to return to duty. Consumption developed, and from then until his death he was on sick leave for 215 days. Bulger received a silver modal in reward for the rescue. He had been a member of the police force for eight years. Asked Permission to Sell Drummond To-Sr. Louis, Oct. 8 .- Harrison L. Two hundred Hebrews who were worshipping in the synagogue of the Solomon Davis Anshe Wischkower congregation at 32 Orchard street were thrown into a panic yesterday morning by the bursting of a steam pipe in the synagogue and the cry of fire which followed it. Every one scrambled for the door and rushed down the one flight of stairs to the street. Fortunately, no one was much hurt in the mad rush. Meyer Solomon was sitting beside the pipe when it burst. His face was quite badly burned. An alarm of fire was sent in, but there was no fire.
